By HONORÉ WILLISIE

Author of "The Heart of the Desert"

The representative of a big jobbing house writes:

"I have read STILL JIM from cover to cover and am enthusiastic about it. What is more, I am getting it on every order for fiction that I sell. I will see all the trade in the Southern and Central part of my state in the next six weeks with nothing but commencement books and I shall recommend STILL JIM as an inspiring book to give a young man just graduating."

This is only one of many enthusiastic letters from the trade.

$PRING'S $ELLER$

Here are five new books with the selling gamble eliminated. Each is written by an author with a substantial following. Each is a book of sufficient distinction to sell always—not merely for a few months.

Time O'Day

By Doris Egerton Jones

Time O'Day is one of the few books that never grow old. It is the diary of the sweetest and most open-hearted girl you ever knew. It is a book that opens a person's purse strings by its unusually intimate appeal. Thyme O'Dea tells her secrets and her romances without altering them to suit convention and without coloring them to meet the approval of sensitive relatives.

It is just a girl story, from beginning to end, clean, absorbing and inspiring.

THE BEST OF THE NEW NOVELS

H. G. Wells's New Novel

BEALBY

By H. G. WELLS

Author of "The Wife of Sir Isaac Harman."

This new novel of Mr. Wells is in many ways the most thoroughly delightful and whimsical story he has written in many a long day. It has to do principally with a little boy, Bealby—alias "Dick Maltravers"—who does not wish to become a member of the serving class, but aspires to "something big," and who revolts against his environment only to find fresh restrictions placed upon him.

The tale is told with Mr. Wells's inimitable humor—that peculiarly fascinating philosophic humor for which he is so famous. No one can read Bealby without enjoying it for it has all the exuberance and the irresistible charm of youth. $1.35

Mr. Eden Phillpotts's New Novel

BRUNEL'S TOWER

By EDEN PHILLPOTTS

Author of "Faith Fresilion," "The Three Brothers," etc.

This novel describes the regeneration of a faulty character through association with dignified, honest work and simple, sincere people. In its reflection of the day-to-day existence of a pottery community it is reminiscent of Arnold Bennett's famous stories of the five towns. Humor and a genuine sympathetic understanding of human nature characterize the tale throughout. Always an artist, Mr. Phillpotts has here written his most notable contribution to literature. $1.50

That is the record of "Contrary Mary" by Temple Bailey. It is doubtful if any novel by a new author has ever received such trade support. Thousands of booksellers have read it, and they are so enthusiastic about it that they began selling it immediately upon publication. Already many of them have reordered, some several times. One bookseller has had 500 copies.

Every indication points to a big sale for the book. People who have bought it are recommending it to their friends, and they are coming into the stores and asking for it. And we are doing everything we can to stimulate this interest by extensive and effective advertising.

The popularity of "Contrary Mary" is creating a demand for this author's first book, "Glory of Youth," which is almost as good a story.

Of all Monsignor Benson's novels, this is the best. Readers will not soon forget the young opera singer, Marion Tenterden, with the gallant air of a boy and the wistfulness of a child, who leaped to fame and happiness in a day, and who in prosperity and adversity was true as finely tempered steel. About her the author has woven a beautiful love story, very human, very sweet, full of happiness and pathos. Her brave young fight for success, her triumph, and the results which follow make a novel that is different from most stories of to-day, one written with a burning purpose, one that leaves the reader deeply stirred.

THE CONSENSUS OF THE BOOK TRADE REGARDING NET PRICES.

NET prices—the economic advisability of the maintenance of fixed retail selling prices—promise to be a "national issue" by the time the next Congress convenes, for a half-dozen diverse movements are working to bring it to a focus at about that time. A special investigation of the subject initiated by the Bureau of Corporations and now being continued by the Federal Trade Commission will have by then reached report stage. Remedial bills introduced into previous Congresses will undoubtedly be reintroduced and pushed for passage. The campaign for national education on the subject, under way for several years past, will by that time bear fruit.

Nothing will then be of greater help to those fighting for net price legislation than the concrete evidence that the business men of the country are well-nigh solidly in support of the legislation asked for. And, as the book trade is an important integral part of the nation's business, as it has been in the forefront of net price litigation and is peculiarly and vitally interested in the general success of the net price movement, it of all business bodies should unanimously and unmistakably make public its stand on the question.

The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY of February 15th told of the meeting in New York City under the auspices of the American Booksellers' Association Board of Trade at which a national trade resolution on the subject was proposed. Since that time the committee appointed at that meeting have formulated the resolutions reprinted elsewhere in this issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, resolutions which they believe represent, clearly and concisely, the sober judgment of the American book trade on the subject which they cover.

These resolutions are being sent to the trade at large for endorsement. They deserve your immediate consideration and approval.

THE decision of the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York in the suit brought by the Victor Talking Machine Company against R. H. Macy & Co. is not unexpected, the precedents in the "Santogen" and "Dick Mimeograph" cases being on the whole favorable to the defendants. The decision hinged on the point that the patentee, having received his entire royalty, parted with all interest in the device "licensed" and could not control the price at which the licensee might resell.

Each succeeding decision, though it hems in more closely the possibility of price protection under existing law and emphasizes the necessity of the new legislation already being sought, also renders more clear the precarious nature of the price-cutter's economic defence. The adverse decisions in the Ingersoll watch and Ford automobile suits were in some respects of more value to the cause of price maintenance than favorable decisions would have been. For the price-cutter's moral argument is that he is leading the public in a fight against extortionate prices and inflated profits: surely Ingersoll watches and Ford automobiles are poor examples of either form of "oppression."

ANY New York bookseller who has not double-starred next Tuesday evening in his personal calendar stands a chance of missing a most enjoyable evening and of supporting a most worthy trade object, "both at once." The "Evening With Popular Authors," which the Booksellers' League is to hold at Aeolian Hall for the benefit of the League's school, will certainly be an all-star performance. Two eleventh-hour changes have been made in the long list: Marjorie Benton Cooke, the author of "Bambi," and Canon Hannay, better known as George A. Birmingham, the author of "The Seething Pot" and "General John Regan," will appear instead of Zane Grey and Charles Rann Kennedy. What with G. A. Birmingham, Alfred Noyes, Coningsby Dawson, Eleanor H. Porter, Helen R. Martin, Marjorie Benton Cooke, Jesse Lynch Williams, William Hard, and Inez Haynes Gillmore, the League's committee offers full value of entertainment.

NET PRICE RESOLUTIONS CIRCULATED BY THE AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION.

The special committee of the Board of Trade of the American Booksellers' Association appointed at the informal luncheon of the Board held at the Park Avenue Hotel, New York City, February 10th last, have formulated the following resolutions, which are now being widely circulated in the trade for endorsement:

"We, the undersigned Publishers and Booksellers of the United States, fully endorse, and herewith subscribe to the following Resolution, passed at a meeting of publishers and booksellers held February 10, 1915.

"THAT, WHEREAS,

The operations of the book trade of the United States constitute most important elements in the higher education and general intellectual development of the people of the country in all grades of life; and,

"WHEREAS,

The governments of other countries have recognized this by wise and far-reaching policy, the people of the United States have a right to expect that the Government will do all in its power, by legislation and by executive action, to remove any barriers that may stand in the way of the production and distribution of literature, and to further in every way practicable the efforts of authors, publishers and booksellers, on the ground that the service rendered by them is of first importance for the higher interests of the community; and,

"WHEREAS,

The book trade of the United States has not only received no encouragement from the authorities, but its legitimate activities have been hampered and its usefulness seriously impaired through predatory price-cutting, as a result of which there has been a material lessening in the number of booksellers throughout the country, and in the facilities extended to the buyers of good literature; and,

"WHEREAS,

New legislation and new interpretations of old legislation, not intended to apply to the book trade, are making the sale of books increasingly difficult and thereby working to the disadvantage, not only of authors, publishers and booksellers, but of the community as a whole.

"NOW, BE IT RESOLVED,

That we, the undersigned publishers and booksellers of the United States, for the purpose of the restriction of predatory price-cutting, and in the interest of fair trade and fair competition, and for the advantage not only of the producers of books, but of the book-reading community, hereby express to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States of America, and to the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers of the United States, this expression of our cordial appreciation of the great work done by these two bodies for the maintenance of the resale price; and,

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,

That we, the undersigned publishers and booksellers of the United States, heartily endorse the recent report as to the resale price of the 'Committee of the National Chamber of Commerce,' wherein it is stated:

'Your Committee is convinced that legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices, under proper restrictions on identified merchandise for voluntary purchase, made and sold under competitive conditions, would be to the best interest of the producer, the distributor, and the purchasing public or consumer'; and,

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,

That we, the undersigned publishers and booksellers, will do all in our power to further the legislation so recommended; and,

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED,

That a copy of this resolution shall be sent to each member of the two Houses of Congress, and to the publishers and booksellers throughout the Country, and that copies shall also be placed in the hands of representative citizens outside of the book trade, whose influence should prove of service in furthering a right understanding of the subject."

THE ADVERSE DECISION IN THE VICTOR V. MACY CASE.

The following is the complete text of the opinion delivered by Judge Hand, March 23d, in the Victor Co's suit against R. H. Macy & Co:

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.

Victor Talking Machine Company, Complainant, vs. Jesse Isidor Straus, Percy S. Straus, and Herbert N. Straus, individually and as copartners trading as R. H. Macy & Company, Defendants.

Fenton & Blount, Solicitors for Complainant (Frederick A. Blount and Hector T. Fenton, Counsel).

Wise & Seligsberg, Solicitors for Defendants (Edmond E. Wise, Counsel).

AUGUSTUS N. HAND, District Judge:—

This is a motion to dismiss the bill of complaint brought under Rule 29 of the new Equity Rules. The suit is for infringement of patents.

The complainant alleges that it is the owner of various patents covering the Victor Talking Machines and Sound Records, that it has manufactured under these patents, has appointed licensed dealers with the right to convey the license to the public to use its machines and sound records only when a royalty has been paid of not less than Two Hundred Dollars for the use of a machine and of not less than that noted on the record for the use of a sound record. Every machine and sound record has accompanying it a notice of license to the foregoing effect and also to the effect that the patented article is to be used only with the machines, sound boxes, sound records and needles manufactured by the complainant. The license also provides that it is good only when the label containing the notice of license is attached to the machine. It likewise provides that the title to the patented goods remains in the Victor Talking Machine Company for the term of the patent having the longest term to run and that upon the expiration of such patent the goods shall become the property of the licensee if he shall have observed the conditions of the license. The license further provides that upon violation of any of the terms of the license, the Victor Talking Machine Company may upon repayment of the amount of the royalty less 5 per cent. per annum for the use retake the patented goods from the user. The complaint does not charge the defendants with having used the patented goods without labels or with needles other than those manufactured by the complainant, but charges as the sole act of infringement that the defendants though lawfully in possession of the patented articles have exceeded the limited use granted by the license in that they have sold the articles outright, in some cases for less than they have paid for the same to the licensed dealers and are threatening to continue this course. The complainant alleges that by its system of marketing its patented machines and sound records it is enabled to obtain the benefit of its patents "at a minimum of cost to the licensee."

The real purpose of the license is obviously to maintain the market for the talking machines and sound records at the prescribed royalty and the essential point involved is whether such a limitation of the use in the mode I have described is within the rights of the owner of the patents.

I may say at the outset that if the patentee has such a right under the patent law, there can be no doubt that this Court, and not the State Court, is the proper tribunal to adjudicate the issue between the parties. I also think that no provision of the Sherman Act or Clayton Act affects the matters at issue. The infringement charged is for selling when defendants are alleged to possess nothing more than a non-assignable right to use. The whole dispute is as to the extent of the monopoly granted by the patent. There is no combination shown in restraint of trade or to fix prices, nor any contract substantially lessening competition. The only question is whether a patentee who has once received his royalty covering the use of the patented article during the entire life of the patent can by his license prevent the transfer of the use by his licensee in a case where upon the expiration of the patent there is a sale of the machine itself to the ultimate possessor conditioned upon the observance of the terms of the license. If the patentee has such a right I think an attempt to sell the machine in derogation of the license for a limited use is an infringement and a remedy for infringement lies in the United States Court, which has general jurisdiction over patent causes. As was said in Henry v. Dick Co., 224 U. S. 1, the complainant might have waived the tort and sued upon the contract of license itself, then the remedy would be at law in the State Court. But he has chosen naturally the more adequate remedy. This being so, the issue is reduced to whether the right declared upon is one given by the patent law.

In the case of Henry v. Dick Co., the license read as follows:

"This machine is sold by the A. B. Dick Co. with the license restriction that it may be used only with the stencil paper, ink and other supplies made by A. B. Dick Company, Chicago, U. S. A."

In that case, Sidney Henry sold to Miss Skou a can of ink suitable for use upon the patented mimeograph with knowledge of the above license agreement and with the expectation that it would be used in connection with said mimeograph. The Court held by a divided vote of four to three, the Chief Justice and Justices Hughes and Lamar dissenting, that the act of Henry constituted an infringement of the patent.

In the case of Bauer v. O'Donnell, 229 U. S. 1, the notice of license was as follows:

"This size package of Sanatogen is licensed by us for sale and use at a price not less than One Dollar. Any sale in violation of this condition or use when so sold, will constitute an infringement of our patent—under which Sanatogen is manufactured. A purchase is an acceptance of this condition. All rights revert to the undersigned in the event of violation."

The Supreme Court decided this case by a divided vote. Mr. Justice Day who did not sit in the case of Henry v. Dick wrote the opinion, and the Chief Justice, Justice Hughes, and Justice Lamar (who dissented in the Dick case) and Justice Pitney constituted the majority and Justices McKenna, Holmes, Lurton and Van Devanter, who were the majority in the Dick case, constituted the minority. The patent law grants:

"To the patentee, his heirs or assigns for the term of seventeen years the exclusive right to make use and vend the invention." R. S. Sec. 4884.

The majority of the Court in Bauer v. O'Donnell, supra, held that the patent law did not under the exclusive right secured by the statute to "vend" a patented article grant the right "to dictate the price at which subsequent sales of the article may be made" when a sale has once taken place. It is to be noticed that the license agreement in that case attempted to limit the use to cases in which a price of $1 should be paid upon all sales and contained a clause reverting title in the patentee wherever the license agreement should be violated in this respect. The most striking difference between that case and the case at bar lies in the fact that here compliance with the license in respect to price or royalty is made a condition precedent to the passing of title, while in Bauer v. O'Donnell such compliance was made necessary to preventing the revesting of title by a condition subsequent. This difference seems to me only formal. In fact, I can see no distinction between permanently parting with the use for a stipulated sum and parting with the title to a patented article so far as the right to restrict the price to the consumer is concerned. But, if there is such a difference, it cannot, I think, be determined by whether the condition of the passing of title is precedent or subsequent if in each event the title is designed ultimately to be in the licensee provided he has paid the designated price. It will be said that a further difference between this case and Bauer v. O'Donnell lies in the fact that there the use granted was confessedly assignable because the license agreement contemplated successive sales while here the licensee was given no right, express or implied, to transfer the use. The point, however, upon which that case turned was that the patentee had no further interest in the use, and unless the licensee violated some provision of the license he had parted with his interest in it because he had received the entire royalty. Such is the exact situation here.

The complainant, however, most urgently argues that the case of Henry v. Dick is not overruled and should determine my action in its favor.

In Bauer v. O'Donnell that case is distinguished by Mr. Justice Day upon the ground that there the use of the machine granted was limited in that it was to be with other articles than the patented apparatus. To quote his exact language:

"There is no showing of a qualified sale for less than value for limited use with other articles only as was shown in the Dick case. There was no transfer of a limited right to use this invention, and to call the sale a license to use is a mere play upon words."

In other words the Dick case must be restricted to the facts there presented and cannot in view of the later case of Bauer v. O'Donnell be extended to cover a case like the present when the patentee has permanently parted with the entire right to use and has no longer any interest in the royalties from subsequent sales. If the defendants should use the machines without complainant's needles, the rule laid down in the Dick case would apply, but no such infringement is alleged. In other words, the interest of the licensor in the use is exhausted except as to its right to have the machine used with the unpatented needles of its manufacture.

As Mr. Justice Day further said in Bauer v. O'Donnell:

"The jobber from whom the appellee purchased had previously bought, at a price which must be deemed to have been satisfactory the packages of Sanatogen afterwards sold to the appellee. The patentee had no interest in the proceeds of the subsequent sales, no right to any royalty thereon or to participation in the profits thereof. The packages were sold with as full and complete title as any article could have been sold in the open market, excepting only the attempt to limit the sale or use when sold for not less than one dollar. In other words, the title transferred was full and complete with an attempt to reserve the right to fix the price at which subsequent sales could be made."

In the case of Bauer v. O'Donnell, I think the court felt the same difficulty in supporting the attempted restriction that courts have often found in giving effect to conditions that are repugnant to the general terms of a conveyance or devise. If this were a case of first impression I might feel that no sufficient reason exists for holding that a patentee could not attach such limitations to the future use of his patented goods as he might choose irrespective of whether he had received a full royalty or not. I think, however, the case of Bauer v. O'Donnell holds to the contrary.

I can, after careful consideration, see no difference, except a purely formal one, between that case and the one under consideration, and for this reason, I am of the opinion that the bill must be dismissed.

FRAUDULENT CHECKS BEING PRESENTED IN EASTERN BOOK STORES BY WELL-DRESSED MAN.

A fashionably dressed young man, from twenty-five to thirty years of age, medium height, slightly built, with dark complexion, and a small black mustache, and with a good knowledge of books, has been offering bogus checks in the bookstores of Springfield, Mass., Hartford, Conn., and New Haven, Conn. In Johnson's Bookstore, in Springfield, he selected a "Webster's International Dictionary" and a set of the "Encyclopedia Britannica" and other books, amounting in all to $269.50, presenting in payment a three-hundred-dollar certified check drawn in favor of August Belmont, Jr., on the Syracuse National Bank. It being the custom in Johnson's to have all checks O. K'd before cashing, the salesman took it to Mr. Johnson, who went up to the department to meet Mr. Belmont and see his credentials, but no "Belmont" was there; he had walked out, saying to the young lady clerk that he would come back in a few minutes. In Hartford and New Haven his operations are said to have been more successful.

COPYRIGHT NOTES.

RIGHT OF AUTHOR TO EXCLUSIVE USE OF CHARACTERS CREATED BY HIM IN A SERIES OF ARTICLES IN WHICH THE PUBLISHER HOLDS THE COPYRIGHT.

AN old, but none the less interesting, question of copyright for which there seems to be no answer in our present copyright laws came up again recently when the Hearst Publications claimed the right to continue a series of articles originally started by Mrs. Mabel Herbert Harper (Mabel Herbert Uner), and copyrighted by them, after Mrs. Harper had severed her connection with the Hearst Publications and placed the series with the McClure Syndicate. The series in question, known as "Their Married Life," gained a country-wide circle of readers while running in the Hearst publications. After Mrs. Harper went over to the McClure Syndicate, the articles continued to appear in the Hearst papers under the same title, written in the same style, and, in fact, the same incidents being developed. But that they did not approach the excellence of her own writing was shown by the fact that many of her readers wrote to her complaining of deterioration, both as to style and interest.

The justice of a writer's protest against the use of her title and characters in such a manner as to injure her literary reputation with her readers is evident. Also, since the Hearst Syndicate supplies newspapers under a blanket contract which covers all their features, the McClure Syndicate found its market curtailed, for editors of these papers did not wish to go to additional expense to secure the genuine stories when they got a series "almost as good" without extra cost. On the other hand, the stories, although the original creations of the author, were ordered by and paid for by the Hearst Syndicate and copyrighted in their name; also, the imitation series reproduced none of the incidents in Mrs. Harper's present stories, or even in the original series.

COMMUNICATIONS.

OPENINGS WANTED FOR TRAINED BOOK CLERKS.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., March 16, 1915.

Editor THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY:

On the 24th of March, the William Penn Evening High School for Women will graduate, so to speak, a class of students who have been studying book salesmanship for the entire winter. The greater portion of the time has been devoted to literature, but they have also had some experience in cataloguing and classification, making bibliographies, using reference books, preparation of book lists for current events, principles of salesmanship, demonstration sales. They have been addressed, moreover, once a week for twenty weeks by various members of the Booksellers' Association on more or less technical matters.

There are some half-dozen of these students out of a class numbering originally 102, who are willing to leave Philadelphia. All of them I can recommend heartily, both as students and as individuals. All of them have had considerable actual experience in selling books.

Might I, through an advertisement, or, perhaps, by the publication of this letter, make their qualifications known to people who are able and willing to pay the salary that they ought to command in this work? They ought to be worth $25-30 per week, but perhaps some of them would be willing to begin at $12 to $15.

L. L. W. WILSON.

OBITUARY NOTES.

J. GEORGE ZWERGEL, for over a score of years a stationer and bookseller of Ypsilanti, Mich., dropped dead last week, aged 68 years.

FREDERICK WINSLOW TAYLOR, originator of the modern scientific management movement, died in Philadelphia on March 21 from pneumonia. He was 59 years old. His publications include: "Concrete, Plain and Reinforced" (in collaboration), 1905; "Art of Cutting Metals," 1906; "Concrete Costs" (in collaboration), 1911; "The Principles of Scientific Management," 1911; "Shop Management," 1911.

CHARLES J. PRICE, one of the oldest booksellers in the United States, died on March 10 at his home in Philadelphia. Born in West Chester, Pa., eighty-five years ago, Mr. Price early developed a taste for books. His parents wished to make a doctor of him, but he went to Philadelphia and, against their wishes, secured employment in a bookstore. Nearly every booklover and collector of rare editions in Philadelphia was known to him. He carried on a large business, especially in foreign editions, and the better to do this he learned several foreign languages. Three years ago, at the advice of his physician, Mr. Price sold his store, but he continued to buy and sell rare and fine editions to the last. His avocations were botany and geology, and some time ago he presented his valuable collection of minerals to the Academy of Natural Sciences, of which he was a member.

CHARLES P. SOMERBY, a publisher and bookseller, widely known a generation ago, died, after a brief illness, at his home in New York on March 23, in his 73d year. During his active years in business he specialized in "liberal" literature. He published and sold "Free Thought" books at a time when practically every other publisher feared to further their circulation. From Paine's "Age of Reason" to Winwood Reade's "Martyrdom of Man," he printed and reprinted books and brochures of like character and pushed their sale with an enthusiasm that worried the orthodox clergy of those days. In 1883 he took charge of the Truthseeker Publishing Co., while continuing to supply his own publications, locating in Clinton Place, near Broadway. In 1887 he moved to 28 Lafayette Place, where he remained until he retired, about fifteen years ago. Mr. Somerby was always a close student of the booktrade, and kept up his interest in its development to the end.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS, great-grandson of President John Adams and grandson of President John Quincy Adams, publicist, historian, brigadier-general of volunteers in the Civil War, and one-time president of the Union Pacific Railroad Company, died on March 20 of grippe at his winter home in Washington. He was seventy-nine years of age. Mr. Adams was a son of the late Chas. Francis Adams, Minister to Great Britain during the Civil War period, and was born on May 27, 1835, in Boston. After finishing public schools, he entered Harvard, being graduated there in 1856. Two years later he was admitted to the bar of Massachusetts. During his activities as a man of affairs he won a name for himself as a public speaker, writer and historian. As a publicist and historian, he was chiefly interested in the history of the United States and the political and economic problems of this country. Mr. Adams was the author of: "Chapters on Erie, and Other Essays"; "Railroads, Their Origin and Problems"; "Notes on Railway Accidents"; "Massachusetts, Its Historians and Its History"; "Three Episodes of Massachusetts History"; "Life of Charles Francis Adams"; "Richard Henry Dana, a Biography"; "A College Fetich"; "Lee at Appomattox, and Other Papers"; "Three Phi Beta Kappa Addresses"; "Studies: Military and Diplomatic"; etc.

MORGAN ROBERTSON, writer of sea tales and poetry, was found dead in his room in an Atlantic City hotel on March 24. He had gone to the seashore to recuperate from a nervous collapse and seemed to be improving. His death was attributed to heart failure. Born in Oswego, N. Y., in 1861, and educated in the public schools and Cooper Institute, Robertson ran away from home at the age of sixteen, and went to sea on a square-rigged vessel that sailed around the world. At the age of twenty-one he was a mate and a pilot. In 1886 he quit the sea and went back to Oswego to learn the watchmaker's trade. By 1889 he was making a good living setting gems. Then came hard times. Having read almost everything that Kipling had written and a few works of Dickens and Thackeray, Robertson got the idea that he could write. First, he tried poetry and then turned to prose, taking the sea as a theme because he was familiar with the life of a common sailor. One of his first stories was written on the kitchen table while his wife washed dishes. He was the author of the following: "A Tale of a Halo," 1894; "Spun Yarn," 1898; "Futility," 1898; "Where Angels Fear to Tread," 1899; "Master of Men," and "Shipmates," 1901; "Sinful Peck," 1903; "Down to the Sea," 1905; "Land Ho," 1908; and "Chivalry," a play, 1913. In addition to a number of short stories, he contributed a remarkable unsigned autobiography to the Saturday Evening Post a year or two ago.

PERSONAL NOTES.

LEWIS C. GANDY has resigned as editor of the Printing Art, to become associated with the Randall Company, a printing concern of St. Paul, Minn.

JOSEPH SCAMMEL, manager of the book department at Gimbel Brothers, Philadelphia, and well known to most of the trade, has severed his connection with that firm.

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN COMPLETED whereby the Literary Agency of London will be continued on the same lines as for many years past under the late Mr. C. F. Cazenove, and the family interests in the Agency will be retained. Mr. J. P. Collins, who in future will direct it, has given up the review editorship of the Pall Mall Gazette and other literary engagements in order to devote himself to the work of the Agency.

C. LEONARD STUART, formerly connected with the International, Americana, Britannica, and other encyclopedias, and for the last eight years publicity manager for The Macmillan Co., is now president of The Stuart Book Society, of which M. L. Stuart is treasurer and L. G. Stuart secretary. This new concern, with headquarters in New York City, has for its purpose the retail selling of books by mail, with especial reference to the inland book-buyer who is not directly touched by a local retail bookseller. It also aims to constitute itself a clearing house of book knowledge for press and private inquiries. A leaflet "Worth-While Reading," containing a carefully selected list of new worth-while books, will be published each month.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

IN HER LATEST NOVEL, "Still Jim," to be published by Frederick A. Stokes Co. on April 20, Honoré Willis reveals an intimate knowledge of the crude West, where the khaki-clad men of the Reclamation Service labor.

THE ELLIOTT COMPANY, makers of the Elliott addressing machines, recently issued a little illustrated booklet, "How the Elliott is used by the publisher," which tells the Elliott 'story' effectively from the publisher's standpoint.

BARSE & HOPKINS will publish, on April 1, three new titles in The Big League Series: "The Making of a Big Leaguer," "Courtney of the Center Garden," and "Covering the Look-in Corner"; and two new books in The Big War Series: "Dodging the North Sea Mines," and "With Joffre on the Battle Line."

JUDGE BERNEY, of Mobile, Ala., in the law and equity court, granted recently the application of the State for an injunction against the Mobile Item, an afternoon newspaper, restraining it from publishing any kind of liquor advertising, in accordance with the Denson anti-liquor advertising bill.

SCOTLAND YARD AGAIN! This time a murdered man is found propped upon the seat of Lady Ditchling's car in front of a fashionable club in Pall Mall. Before "The Woman in the Car" (Lippincott) is through, and before Lady Ditchling collapses before the Scotland Yard officials, the author, Richard Marsh, succeeds in involving a number of noted people in a decidedly nerve-racking story.

THYME O'DEA was an ingenuous girl, and in "Time O'Day," published this spring by George W. Jacobs, she tells her secret, tells ingenuously how she "kissed men by moonlight," and how the great romance of love unfolded in her life. The publishers describe the book as "just a girl story, from beginning to end, clean, absorbing and inspiring."

THE GEORGE H. DORAN Co. has postponed the publication of "The Eagle of the Empire," Cyrus Townsend Brady's Napoleonic story, from April 1 to April 15. Four more volumes in the attractive Art and Craft of Letters Series will appear at once: "The Ballad," by Frederick Sidgwick; "The Essay," by Orlo Williams; "Criticism," by P. P. Howe; and "Parody," by Christopher Stone.

THE FLEMING H. REVELL Co. announce publication shortly of "Fanny Crosby's Own Story," by S. Trevena Jackson; "The Light on the Hill," a new story of the hill folk of the South, by Mrs. Martha Gielow; a new character study of Dwight L. Moody by Rev. John McDowell, of Newark, N. J.; "The Fight for Peace," by Dr. Sidney L. Gulick; and "The Last War," by Dr. Frederick Lynch, secretary of the Church Peace Union.

"THE HONEY BEE," Samuel Merwin's novel, now appearing serially in McClure's Magazine, will be published by Bobbs-Merrill early in May. The central figure in the story, a not at all uncommon figure nowadays, is a woman who works, who has been highly successful, who has past the days of "girlish laughter" but who hasn't found herself. She is in revolt against she scarcely knows what. In the course of the story she works out her own salvation in her own truly feminine fashion.

"THE EIGHT STUDIES which make up the present volume are intended primarily as illustrations of the faith and hope by which men actually live to-day," says Horace Bridges in the introduction to his stimulating "Criticisms of Life," just published by Houghton Mifflin. These "studies in faith, hope and despair" deal with such interesting subjects as "The right to die: Maeterlinck and Ingersoll versus humanity"; "Mr. Winston Churchill and clerical 'heresy'"; "Mr. G. K. Chesterton as theologian"; etc.

THE MACMILLAN Co. issued this week "Getting a Wrong Start," an anonymous story of a young man's struggles to find himself, said to be a truthful autobiography of one of the popular authors of the day. On April 7 will appear "The Business Adventures of Billy Thomas," a story of business life relating to the experiences of one Billy Thomas, salesman, by Elmer E. Ferris, while later in April Arthur Stringer's new novel, "The Hand of Peril," will be put forth.

HAMILTON HOLT, publisher of the Independent, spoke recently on "Commercialism and Journalism" before the New England Women's Press Association. He suggested a combination of newspapers for protection against advertisers, and said the yellow newspapers were losing influence. He said publishers should form a committee of investigation to inquire into the withdrawal of an advertisement, and should the committee report that the withdrawal was for an improper reason, all the papers should refuse the advertisement.

THE READER WHO WISHES TO ESCAPE from the omnipresent "extray" about the campaigning in unpronounceable places in Europe, is given plenty of opportunity in the books published this spring by Little, Brown & Co. This month they issued "A Siren of the Snows," a Secret Service story of the frozen north, and "The Flying U's Last Stand," a Western story, while for April 15 we are promised "The Rim of the Desert," a story of Alaska and Washington State, by Ada Woodruff Anderson, and "A Girl of the Blue Ridge," a tale by Payne Erskine of those rude, unmodern people who live tucked away in the valleys of the Carolina mountains.

IN THESE SPRING DAYS, when the box score is once again assuming its normal place of importance in the morning's news, and when the young man's fancies turn to the skinned diamond over there in the vacant lot, baseball books again take their place as boys' birthday books par excellence. For the boy between nine and fifteen, "Catcher Craig," by Christy Mathewson, just published by Dodd, Mead & Co., at once suggests itself as a live baseball story, while for the boy from twelve to sixty, "Baseball," by Bill Clarke, ex-Giant and Princeton coach, and F. T. Dawson, captain of the 1911 Princeton team, which Scribner will publish early in April, promises to be "cram-full" of interesting technical points on the game.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT that the J. F. Tapley Company, of New York, have established in their bookbinding establishment at 531 West 37th Street a school to work in conjunction with the vocational classes of the New York Board of Education is premature. This bindery, with others in the city, is prepared to aid the Board of Education to introduce part-time and continuation work, so that vocational courses in the high schools may be conducted under trade auspices and under trade conditions. The Board of Education has not today established the system in any of the trade shops. Their plans are yet to be matured. All methods seem to recognize as fundamental the principle that the teaching of the industry belongs to the industry itself.

ONE of the interesting features of "Victory," Joseph Conrad's new novel, just published by Doubleday, Page & Co., is the map of the world covering the front end-paper of the volume. On it is charted the important points and routes mentioned in Conrad's stories. There is the location of Samburan, the deserted island in "Victory," the course taken by "The Brute" in "A Set of Six," the spot in the China Sea where the storm raked the Nan Shan in "Typhoon," the course of the Narcissus, the scene of the shipwreck of the Patna as described in "Lord Jim," and a dozen other interesting bits of Conradian geography. It's a mighty clever bit of advertising that will attract both the Conrad devotee and the person who has not as yet been so fortunate as to sail the seas with the creator of "The Nigger."

FROM WEDNESDAY TO SATURDAY of this week the Guild of Bookworkers held their eighth annual exhibition in New York City. The exhibition included four cases in which the work of professionals was shown, one case for amateurs who have worked one year or less, and two cases for amateurs whose work has extended over two years or more. Of special interest were the plaster reproductions of ancient book covers, executed by Frank W. Miller, of Providence, R. I., and the decorative work of Dr. R. Meyer-Riefstahl, on Florentine hand-made paper, used to cover books, as shown in three volumes of Sheridan's works bound by Katherine D. Eckstein, in half red levant. Another feature was an example of book illumination on vellum, by a nun of St. Elizabeth Convent, New Jersey. In addition to other examples of book illumination, there was also a set of samples of book plates by Sara B. Hill. The Guild of Bookworkers has 110 members, most of them women. Among the amateurs who exhibited were Mrs. James Montgomery Flagg, Miss Sara M. Cunningham, Caroline Alden Weir, Emily Preston, Miss Mary Green and Dr. Edmund B. Thompson. Among the other exhibitors were: Miss Frances Tomlinson, of California; Mrs. H. K. Pomroy, of New York; Rachael Miller Hunt, Eleanore L. Sweningen, of Baltimore; Fanny Dudley, Henry S. Chatfield, Adolphe Cuzia, of Paris, and John F. Graham, of Buffalo.

THE SALE OF PART IV. of the late Adrian H. Joline's library was concluded on Wednesday by the Anderson Auction Company. A number of Napoleon's letters brought good prices. A collection of autographic material by Sir Walter Scott, including two pages of manuscript notes for his "History of Scotland" and four pages of the proof of the "Fair Maid of Perth," with many corrections in Scott's handwriting, went for $100. $105 was paid for a letter of Lawrence Sterne to David Garrick, and $125 for another letter of Sterne addressed to "Dear Blake." Autograph manuscripts of a number of "Poems and Ballads," twenty pages in the autograph of Algernon Swinburne, were knocked down to George D. Smith for $386, and he obtained for $126 a two-page duodecimo letter of William M. Thackeray to William Henry Ainsworth, January 13, 1857, putting off the dinner hour because of his lecture engagements. The original contract for Oliver Goldsmith's "History of Animated Nature" was sold for $385. George D. Smith gave $315 for an amusing joint letter from Charles and Mary Lamb congratulating Hazlitt upon the birth of a son. Mr. Smith also bought a Latin essay by Thomas Gray in the poet's hand for $205; a letter of Garrick declining Lord Holderness' invitation for $105; and some Charles J. Fox letters for $105. Charles Scribner's Sons paid $265 for the spiritual instructions given to Mme. de Maintenon, thirty-five pages of which were in her handwriting. The total for the three days of the sale was $10,053.55.

Conrad, Jos. Victory; an island tale. Garden City, N. Y., Doubleday, Page. c. 462 p. map D $1.35 n.

"Life is a shadow, religion the great joke" said Axel Heyst; "therefore, I'll have nothing to do with the world. I'll drift." In the course of his "drifting," Heyst met and pitied Lena, a girl in a traveling ladies' orchestra. When she begged him to take her away, he unwillingly complied, and they began their strange life on the deserted isle in the South Pacific. Into their haven of refuge from the world came grim, unscrupulous "Mr. Jones" and Ricardo, on pillage bent. Only in the end do Heyst and Lena find victory in finding the beauty of life through their love for each other; but they find it too late, only after Lena is mortally wounded for Heyst's sake.

As Americans in their own country have seldom traveled for the sake of traveling, but with the definite purpose of getting somewhere, a history of their road-making becomes a history of their expanding civilization. Present volumes form much more than an outline of this progress. They give an incalculable amount of information about the development of the engineering methods, and, through diaries and letters, painstakingly secured, they make a valuable picture of past times.

Life's early lessons for a half-caste Philippino. When their village was burned, Guimo is the only person left alive. Until he grew quite big, he lived with a strange old man who teaches him much nature lore. The next climax in Guimo's life is the coming of the Americans. One of these who owes his life to Guimo, plays him false. So the youth's dream of coming to America is unfulfilled at the close of the book.

When Pyramid Gordon died he left bequests to make reparation to business associates and others that he himself had not taken time for during his life. The executors of this strange will are Shorty McCabe and J. Bayard Steele. We all know the keen, kind and slangy Shorty. Every way Steele is his opposite. Also, Steele is an old enemy of Gordon's. Frank and rapid is Shorty's description of the beneficiaries, and what was done for them. Attendance to these duties, sharply watched by Shorty, makes a human being of Steele. Perhaps, as we guess, this is part of Gordon's plan.

Charles King Garrett, at thirty, believed that he was through with love and that women appealed only to his head. Charles had studied women closely, particularly Mary Wing, a forceful girl, who had ideas about woman's sphere. Then came Angela, a beautiful feminine girl, who began at once to worship Charles. At this point, society was thrown into a turmoil over the case of Flora Trevenna, who had listened to some "advanced" talk about woman's freedom, and had acted on it. Flora's return was the turning point in the lives of Charles and Mary and Angela (and of Donald Manford), and Charles was swept from theory into the rapids of experience. In the end, he found out what kind of woman is the right kind of woman.

John-the-Fool is part of the gulfand debated by Virgil Williams and Laure Drouillot. She is a Creole descendant of a brave line of pirates, and has lost her secret grants to the land. An old French baron, absurd and chivalrous, encourages her, believing in her title. At Williams' suggestion, Redfield has come down to the swamp to tackle a man's job. It will prove to his fiancée, Mary Mason, that he can handle it. Desperate at the success of Williams and the company, Laure dynamites the dredging machinery. Williams is there at the time. Laure saves him at great risk to herself, and the complete unveiling of her love for him. In the end, the missing papers are discovered, and the feud between Laure and Williams closes happily, while Mary and Redfield make up their quarrel.

Spanish, with a touch of Irish, José de la Mancha came to Canada to hunt for his young brother, described as the Brat. Both were a mixture of scamp and gentleman. They lived on adventure, and got on best when apart. Before he joined the Mounted Police José loved a noble Indian woman. His pride kept him from marrying her. After a number of years, he and she met again. Her people were no longer free and were going to pieces on a reservation. The Blackguard and Rain (the woman) led them to Texas, and started them anew. Rain grew sick unto death, and wanted to go home to Canada, where the Wolf Trail began. The Blackguard took her back. He killed a white man who tried to dishonor her. At this point, the story is taken up by the editor, who describes José's trial and the fine showing the Brat made at it.

Thompson, Fk. V. Commercial education in public secondary schools. Yonkers-on-Hudson, N. Y., World Bk. Co. c. 9+194 p. tabs. O (School efficiency ser.) $1.50

A critical examination of contemporary commercial education, distinguished between mere clerical training and real education for business. Author offers constructive proposals based on the actual needs of business as it is. His plans would lead to effective co-operation between business and commercial education, with the object of making the latter truly vocational.

Autobiography of the fourth child of the Emperor Francis-Joseph and the Empress Elizabeth. The story of this child, who was brought up in secret by foster-parents, reads as if it might belong to a sixteenth-century princess. What she tells of the life of the court she learned from her mother who was exceedingly fond of her and visited her often. Book gives a new version of the inexhaustible Mayerling affair, as a clerical plot to be rid of the crown prince.

The Publishers' Weekly

Subscription Rates.

One year, postage prepaid in the United States, $4.00; foreign, $5.00.

Single copies, 10 cents. Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Bookshelf 25 cents.

Advertising Rates.

One page	$25 00
Half page	14 00
Quarter page	7 00
Eighth page	4 00
One-sixteenth page.....	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred positions (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday night.

Under the heading "BOOKS WANTED" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for specific books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, unspecified wants, reprinted matter, and all advertisements from non-subscribers, cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privileges of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "BOOKS FOR SALE" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

MORE EXASPERATING

Than to find a number of typographical errors in a completed book. Our proof readers are human, and consequently not infallible, but here are some of the things that have been said about them:

"Many thanks . . . for well read and corrected galleys. I found only one error to correct; something unusual in my experience with former printer."

"The proof just received is remarkably clean."

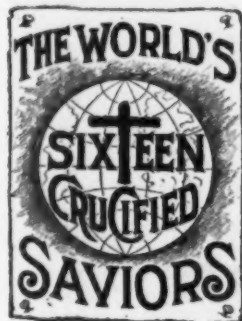

We might quote more of the same nature—and we may, later on.

A New Novel that Will sell Big THE DIARY OF A BEAUTY

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL

THE DIARY OF A BEAUTY

By MOLLY ELLIOT SEAWELL

repeats the magic of that power which poets have sung and men have worshipped; for which Troy fell and heroes died; for which Antony gave up Empire and other men their hope of heaven.

"The fatal gift of beauty," gave Louise Baird power over circumstance, gave her wealth and gave her opportunity; gave her sway over the hearts of men. "She walks in like the Night of cloudless climes and starry skies." How this modern Helen won the great prize of life—a true man's love—how from a country village she reached social power in the great world—how she tasted the sweets of artistic success, and through it all retained the heart of a simple maid to whom love is all in all—is convincingly told in this wonderful romance.

A Few of the Reasons why we believe it will be a Best Seller

It is by the author of "Betty's Virginia Christmas," one of the most popular books last Autumn.

It is acknowledged by many to be Miss Seawell's strongest and most brilliant story to date.

The revealing diary of the beautiful Louise Baird's adventures will enthrall all readers because of its unusualness.

FREDERICK DORR STEEL has drawn for the novel 12 of his most spirited and charming illustrations, picturing the different scenes.

The handsome binding in blue and gold and the jacket in three colors are most attractive and will make the book a favorite gift for any occasion.

Furthermore, it is a novel of high ideals that you can recommend to any fiction reader, old or young.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in MARCH, 1915

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, Q, O, D, etc., books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8, 12°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e. GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

The Pirates of the Sky

By STEPHEN GAILLARD

Out September 1

The Pirates of the Sky is a vigorous and racy story of the experiences of an American reporter on the hunt for a bloodthirsty band of depredators, who pillage American cities, loot banks, and kill and maim, always escaping from the scene of their exploits in a monster aeroplane of unequaled size and swiftness. The author must have had a premonition of the great European War when he wrote The Pirates of the Sky, for in his book he has anticipated the daring exploits performed by war aviators. The book fairly bristles with action, and Tom Baldwin, the hero, is just the kind of fellow you will like to know. He is a typical, live, wide-awake newspaper man, and the character has not been overdrawn. The members of the "black brotherhood," also, are so skillfully drawn that before you have read many pages you feel as if you had met each one of them in person.

In the course of their adventures with the pirates, Baldwin and his companion, Grahame, meet two very charming young women, who naturally become the principals in the indispensable love affairs.

From cover to cover the interest is maintained without a break.

Beautiful wash drawings by Leon D'Emo, and an artistic cover design by J. Allen St. John, add much to the effectiveness of the book.

THE HONEY BEE

MERWIN

A great story of a beautiful honey bee in the hive of American business. On her first vacation she feels stirring within her a yearning for the experience of love, and all the heritage of woman. There is a great man of affairs to teach her the taste of strange, intoxicating honey. There is another man—a fighter who will be good for your soul.
